

Dreadnaught Blueprints

It's 1906, and tensions brew between Great Britain and Germany over the great battleships called dreadnaughts. Germany's kaiser insists that his navy build the great ships so they will rival his uncle's navy in Great Britain. The kaiser's advisors have dispatched a spy to build a secret group of spies near the naval dockyard in Devonport. This ringleader recruited four individuals to steal the dreadnaught blueprints. He sent them to the dockyard at different times to search different areas of the base. Each has their own reason for attempting the theft. Can you work out which spy searched which area of the base, when they each searched, and why they committed themselves to such a dangerous mission? Only one spy succeeded in stealing the blueprints. Which one got away with these secret documents?

1. The attempted theft in the map room occurred at 2 PM.
2. Anna Fischer didn't want to sabotage the navy.
3. Someone stole into the admiral's office at 8 PM.
4. Bruno Kessler wanted to steal the blueprints to sell them to a rival nation.
5. The individual motivated by personal revenge searched the archive vault.
6. Clara Voss made her attempt later than the individual motivated by blackmail.
7. The attempt at 4 PM wasn't in the drafting hall.
8. Dietrich Braun didn't act at 6 PM.
9. The individual motivated by sabotage wasn't in the admiral's office.
10. The blackmailer acted earlier than the successful thief who entered the drafting hall.
11. Anna Fischer made her attempt at 4 PM.
12. Clara Voss wasn't in the map room.
